UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF RHODE ISLAND

ALBERT L. GRAY, ADMINISTRATOR, ET AL. PLAINTIFFS

C.A. NO. 04-312L

JEFFREY DERDERIAN, ET AL.

V.

DEFENDANTS

MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR PARTICULARIZED NEED DISCOVERY

In the immediate aftermath of the Station Fire, a number of sheets of polyurethane foam (believed to be at least four) were seized by government authorities from the basement of the nightclub. This foam has been in the possession of the State of Rhode Island and/or Town of West Warwick since that time.

The state has already subjected some of this foam to destructive testing by its expert, Joseph Zicherman. It is presently unknown how much foam has been consumed by this testing.

On or about September 24, 2004 in open court in the state criminal proceeding, the Attorney General's office on behalf of the State of Rhode Island represented on the record that it would inform the undersigned Plaintiffs' counsel of any intention to perform testing on the polyurethane foam in its possession so that Plaintiffs' counsel could take whatever action they deem appropriate.

The Attorney General's office has now informed Plaintiffs' counsel that it plans to conduct further destructive testing that will consume forty-eight (48) square feet of the approximately seventy-one (71) square feet of foam in the State's possession.

This motion for particularized need discovery is very narrowly limited to a request for the entry of an order requiring the Defendants State of Rhode Island and Town of West Warwick to produce a one square foot section of foam from 1) each sheet of foam or portion thereof still in existence and in the possession of the State of Rhode Island and/or Town of West Warwick and 2) any control samples of foam retained by the State of Rhode Island from the foam samples provided to its expert, Joseph Zicherman for testing.

Plaintiffs request that these one square foot sections of foam be deposited in the evidence warehouse in Cranston which is under the supervision of this court and is being maintained jointly by Plaintiffs and defense counsel. Such preservation will insure the integrity and continued existence of this extremely important evidence.

Plaintiffs need this foam preserved so that it can be used in future testing which is described in the accompanying Affidavit of Plaintffs' expert, Carl L. Duncan. See Affidavit of Carl L. Duncan attached hereto as Exhibit "A". In his affidavit, Mr. Duncan sets forth the testing presently contemplated for these one square foot sections of foam. See Paragraphs 9A - D and 10A - E of the Duncan Affidavit. The purpose of the proposed testing is to, among other things, identify the manufacturer(s) of the foam. See Duncan Affidavit at Paragraph 10, P. 4.

Plaintiffs believe that there will be no prejudice to the Defendants State of Rhode Island and/or Town of West Warwick or the Defendants in the criminal case by the removal of such a small, yet critically important amount of foam from each remaining sheet of foam (which are each approximately 4' x 8' in dimension).

Plaintiffs have filed a declaratory judgment action in State court, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "B".

CONCLUSION

Accordingly, Plaintiffs request entry of an order compelling Defendants State of Rhode Island and/or Town of West Warwick to produce to Plaintiffs for storage in the Station Fire evidence warehouse one square foot of foam from 1) each sheet of foam still in existence and in the possession of the State of Rhode Island and/or Town of West Warwick and 2) any control samples of foam retained by the State of Rhode Island from the foam samples provided to its expert, Joseph Zicherman for testing.

AFFIDAVIT OF CARL L. DUNCAN FIRE ANALYST

- 1. I am a fire analyst with over thirty-six (36) years experience in fire fighting, fire investigation, code enforcement and fire incident analysis.
- 2. I have over seventeen (17) years of municipal fire service with over ten (10) years in fire investigation and fire safety inspection. I have been certified by the California State Department of Education, fire service training program in fire investigation, fire inspection and fire command at their highest level.
- 3. I obtained a degree in fire science in 1969 from Santa Ana College. I obtained a vocational teaching credential from the California Department of Education and was assigned to that department for the purpose of developing an educational curriculum for Fire Investigation and Fire Code enforcement.
- 4. I have taught college level courses in fire cause and origin, fire investigation, fire and building codes and ordinances, fire protection systems and fire defense planning.
- 5. I am president of CLD Associates, LLC, a company I founded in 1980, for the purpose of providing consulting services in fires, explosions and related fire analysis issues.
- 6. I have coordinated the investigation and analysis of numerous large life and property loss incidents including:
  - 1 The Beverly Hills Supper Club fire 167 fatalities
  - 2 The MGM Grand Hotel fire 87 fatalities
  - 3 The Las Vegas Hilton Hotel fire
  - 4 The San Juan Dupont Plaza Hotel fire 97 fatalities
  - 5 The Happyland Social Club fire in New York 100 fatalities
  - 6 The Pepcon Rocket Fuel Oxidizer Plant fire and detonation
  - 7 The Imperial Foods Plant fire, Hamlet, NC 25 fatalities
- 7. I have been retained by the plaintiffs' steering committee in the matter of The Station nightclub fire. I spent more than six (6) weeks coordinating the analysis of this fire incident including the removal and retention of artifacts in the form of "Egg Crate" foam.

- 8. I have advised the members of the plaintiffs' steering committee of the need to test, at a minimum, one (1) square foot of foam both from 1. each of the sheets of foam seized from the site of the Station fire now in the possession of the State of Rhode Island and/or the West Warwick Police; and 2. any control samples retained by the State of Rhode Island from the foam samples provided to its expert Dr. Zicherman for testing. A control sample is a representative section of foam from a larger piece of foam which itself has been consumed by destructive testing.
- 9. The testing to be performed on these one (1) square foot samples of foam will use, among other techniques, the following:

a. STEREOMICROSCOPY (SM)

Initial analysis will be under the stereomicroscope at magnifications from approximately 5X to 70X. The morphology, homogeneous/heterogeneous nature, physical structure and overall nature of a sample will be observed and recorded. Samples will be photographed through the stereomicroscope, if appropriate.

b. FOURNIER TRANSFORM INFRARED (FTIR) SPECTROSCOPY

FTIR spectroscopy is one of the most frequently used techniques for identification of organic (carbon based) materials. Some inorganic compounds can also be identified by this method. The technique involves measuring the absorption as a function of wavelength of an infrared radiation (IR) beam which is either transmitted through the sample or reflected by it. The intensities and wavelengths of IR absorbed by the sample are directly related to the chemical functional groups within the sample. By comparing the intensity versus wavelength spectrum with those of reference standards, specific compounds can be identified.

c. SCANNING ELECTRON MICROSCOPY (SEM)

In the scanning electron microscope (SEM), samples are bombarded in a vacuum chamber using a focused beam of electrons. These electrons interact with the sample in numerous ways including producing secondary electrons, backscattered electrons, and x-rays.

d. ENERGY DISPERSIVE SPECTROMETRY (EDS) and WAVELENGTH DISPERSIVE SPECTROMETRY (WDS)

X-rays generated by the SEM's electron beam are used for determining the qualitative elemental composition of an excited area of a sample. The x-rays are usually detected with an energy dispersive system (EDS), which determines all the elements present above the detection limit in the sample which is approximately 0.1 wt. %. For better sensitivity, especially for trace amounts, a wavelength dispersive system (WDS), which has a detection limit of 10 ppm, can be used.

10. The testing to be performed on these one (1) square foot samples of foam includes, but is not limited to, the following:

a. Bulk density

The bulk density of the foam will be determined by cutting cubes of foam, measuring their dimensions, weighting the cubes, and calculating the bulk density according to ASTM Standard Test Method D3574-A. This test will be performed in triplicate on each foam sample.

b. Surface Area

The surface area will be determined by measuring the foam and calculating the surface area. This test will be performed in triplicate on each foam sample.

c. Pore Size

The pore size of the foam samples will be determined by cutting several sections from each sample, coating them with gold/palladium to increase the conductivity in the SEM, and obtaining images. These images will be analyzed by an off-line particle-sizing program to provide data for the size distribution of the pores over an area of specified dimensions. Several images will be analyzed and summed to compensate for the cut surfaces containing many pores that are not cut through the center.

d. Composition

The composition of the foams will be obtained by FTIR spectroscopy to identify the base polymer. EDS will be used to identify major and minor elements. WDS will be used for qualitative analysis of trace elements.

e. At a later date a cone calorimeter test can be performed on part of the samples.

The purpose of this testing is, in part, to identify the manufacturers of the foam. The need to perform these tests on samples from each sheet of foam seized from the fire site stems from the fact that two manufacturers sold foam to American Foam Corporation shortly before the sale to the Derderians on June 27, 2000.

VERIFIED COMPLAINT FOR DECLARATORY JUDGMENT

- 1. All of the Plaintiffs listed in plaintiff groups 1-240, inclusive, above and all of the defendants listed as D1-D47, inclusive, above are parties in Civil Action No. 04-312L pending in United States District Court for the District of Rhode Island (which was originally filed in this Court and subsequently removed to the Federal Court). All Plaintiffs suffered either direct or derivative injury from The Station Nightclub Fire on February 20, 2003. All of the Plaintiffs, either individually or in representative capacities, seek damages in that action for injuries and deaths resulting from The Station Nightclub Fire.
- 2. Among the captioned defendants in the Federal Court civil action and this declaratory judgment action is the State of Rhode Island.
- 3. Defendant State of Rhode Island has filed criminal charges against Michael Derderian, Jeffrey Derderian and Daniel Biechele for the deaths of the 100 persons killed in the fire, and that matter is presently pending before the Superior Court (Darigan, J.).
- 4. Defendants State of Rhode Island and/or Town of West Warwick, have obtained from the fire site a limited amount of polyurethane foam which is the same foam that had been attached to the walls of The Station Nightclub as soundproofing material and was a major contributor to the extremely rapid spread of the fire.
- 5. On or about September 24, 2004 in open court in the state criminal proceeding, the Attorney General's office on behalf of the State of Rhode Island represented on the record that it would inform the undersigned Plaintiffs' counsel of any intention to perform testing on the polyurethane foam in its possession so that Plaintiffs' counsel could take whatever action they deem appropriate.

- 6. The Attorney General's office has now informed Plaintiffs' counsel that it plans to conduct further destructive testing that will consume forty-eight (48) square feet of the approximately seventy-one (71) square feet of foam in the State's possession.
- 7. The Superior Court has scheduled a conference of parties to the criminal proceeding to deal with issues regarding the testing of the foam on January 14, 2005.
- 8. Plaintiffs are concerned that the foam consumed by the planned destructive testing performed on behalf of the State in the criminal matter will preclude Plaintiffs' experts from performing the testing necessary to determine the foam's chemical composition and other characteristics necessary for Plaintiffs to prove their claims against the State, the criminal defendants and other defendants in the civil proceeding.
- 9. The interests of the parties in the civil proceeding in preserving and protecting the foam so that an adequate amount will be available for inspection and testing are clearly adverse and constitute a legitimate, justiciable controversy.
  - 10. Plaintiffs are unable to intervene to protect their interests in the criminal matter.
- 11. Plaintiffs will be irreparably harmed if the limited available foam is not handled in a manner which protects the interests of all parties.
  - 12. Plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law.
- 13. The Rhode Island Supreme Court has ruled in the case of State of Rhode Island vs. Cianci, 496 A.2d 139 (R.I. 1985), that the appropriate remedy for adjudicating the rights of interested parties in controversies incidental to criminal prosecutions is a declaratory judgment action; accordingly, Plaintiffs have filed the instant declaratory judgment action.
- 14. The issues raised in this complaint are appropriate for resolution under the Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act, R. I. G. L. § 9-30-1 et. seq.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs request the following relief:

- 1. That the Court declare that Plaintiffs have a protectible interest in being heard prior to any further testing of the foam.
- 2. That the Court preliminarily and permanently enjoin the State of Rhode Island and the Town of West Warwick, by and through their agents, servants, employees and others acting on their behalf from dissipating, destroying, testing or otherwise disposing of or transferring to any party any polyurethane foam seized from the site of The Station Nightclub Fire until after Plaintiffs receive notice of the State's intention (with testing methods, available quantities and protocols set forth) and Plaintiffs have had an opportunity to be heard by the Court on the subject including the presentation of expert testimony, if necessary.
- 3. That the Court order such additional relief as is appropriate to protect the interests of the parties.
